

CHINA

CONFERENCE

CHINA ENVIRONMENT & ENERGY CONFERENCE

LANGESUND, TELEMARK, NORWAY 25-26TH OCTOBER 2005

Introduction

China is experiencing phenomenal economic growth. This has improved the lives of millions, but has also had serious environmental impacts. There is huge demand for energy, water and raw materials. China has taken considerable steps towards alleviating these problems. But there is a need for new technological solutions to handle the issues of water, air, waste and energy. China seeks broad international cooperation to identify the best solutions to these issues.

These environmental challenges provide considerable opportunities for international cooperation with China. The China Environment & Energy Conference is aimed at addressing these issues and attaining a broader understanding of the opportunities available and how to approach the environmental market in China.

Representatives from major Chinese institutions within the environmental and energy sector will speak at the Conference and address key issues.

The aim of the conference

The Conference will discuss and further develop areas of cooperation with China. Important success factors for such cooperation will be targeted and emphasised. Environmental issues to be covered are in the fields of water and air quality, waste management and renewable energy.

The China Environment & Energy Conference will also address key aspects of developing business and how to further enhance partnerships with China.

Issues to be covered:

- Chinese priorities and policies on environmental issues and how they are approached.
- World Bank Report covering issues of water, waste and energy in China.
- Current and future opportunities for cooperation with China.
- Key aspects of developing business in China.
- Financial issues and funding schemes for cooperation projects.
- Education and research.

Norwegian Target groups:

- Businesses within the Environment and Energy Technology sector.
- Public sector & NGOs with an interest in international cooperation.
- Politicians
- Educational & research institutions with an interest in international cooperation.

A cooperation between:

- World Bank
- Innovation Norway
- GreenPartner Norway
- Telemark University College
- BTV Invest AS

Please register on Conference site:

www.china-conference.net

Conference fee:

NOK 4500 (VAT included)